Q4

To reach our collective potential, we must work together to build up Ottawa. That requires a council in which each member commits to city wide leadership. What is your intended approach to collaboration with council, city staff and economic partners?

Supporting business is not merely a slogan. It is an action. It is a verb. I spent a great deal of time highlighting the incredible local businesses that we have in the East End. I also frequent many local businesses city wide. I am proud to have the endorsement of local business owners across the city. We must ensure that people understand that when you support a local business, you are supporting a local family. We must continue to work together to create a environment where business and individuals can thrive. This must include a deep and enduring respect for private property rights, reducing unnecessary, red tape, and an attitude that supports our local economy. This is why I commissioned the Orléans secondary plan to bring more local business and the housing to support it along the 174 – Saint Joseph Corridor.

I love this city, and I believe that it can flourish economically, if we think practically and abandon ideological rhetoric.

Q5

What key characteristics and skills do you possess that make you a great leader and ambassador for the city of Ottawa, and the national capital region?

I believe in Ottawa. I believe that we can be a place that is not merely a sleepy government town, but a place where people and businesses can thrive. I believe in a city that supports our local businesses, and works hard to ensure that we set the conditions For the success of local entrepreneurs. I believe that Ottawa has a very bright future, one that will make us attractive to those seeking a place to do business, to live in a neighbourhood where they can find, meaningful work, and one where you can remain local, when searching for the amenities that make our lives, more vibrant and livable.

I am an unabashed cheerleader for this beautiful city, and this beautiful region.
